Enjoy Timely and Efficient Market Access With Onsite Lab Testing

Quality

Demonstrate that your in-house lab operates competently and generates valid results for CSA Group's qualified test facility programs by complying with the newly revised 2017 edition of the ISO/IEC 17025 standard.

It's mandatory for any organization who wants to use their test lab results for product certification and verification as of November 30, 2020.

Speed

Manufacturers with their own testing laboratories may get their products to market sooner.

CSA Group can conduct an audit of your lab to assess for compliance with the revised standard in days, depending on the complexity of the scope. If your certification body has not updated your lab, we can convert your qualified facility over to CSA Group.

Expertise

Our knowledgeable experts and certification staff can explain how the differences between the new and current edition of the standard, and how these changes impact your lab.

We can verify your facility's compliance with the new requirements for risk assessment, processes, quality control, data and information management, and more.

THE CSA GROUP DIFFERENCE

That's how we're holding the future to a higher standard.

Continue Qualifying for Popular Qualified Test Facility Programs

WMTC

Witnessed Manufacturer's Testing for Certification may save you money because you're conducting tests in your own facility, with our technical specialists coming onsite for tests that require witnessing.

SMTC

Supervised Manufacturer's Testing for Certification offers improved cost-savings benefits compared to WMTC, with limited witness testing by our technical specialists. In addition, it allows manufacturers to provide test data directly to CSA Group for verification and certification.

CPC

Category Program for Certification, once qualified, offers cost-savings benefits as compared to SMTC, with no witness testing requirements. In addition, since technical specialists are typically involved with your test plan and construction requirements early on in the certification process, the time for our verification and certification may be dramatically reduced from other qualified test facility programs.
